Clocks, The Tick Tocks Of The Time

Hello, my friend!

The most precious treasure for humans is time. A person who appreciates the importance of time spends it on useful activities rather than the useless ones. Just as it is not possible to undo the firing of an arrow, so it is to bring back the spent time. For this reason, one should spend the time in the best and most efficient way.

Time is very important and precious. The same is the case for the clocks, which are used for measuring the time. In this edition, we have provided information about various types of clocks used in history up to date. You will be amazed to see the clocks used in those days when there were no electronic devices.

Squirrel - Photograph - Contest

Squirrels are very cute and friendly animals. Instead of running away on seeing humans, they seem to prefer playing with them. These squirrel photos are shot in an international photography contest. The contest witnessed some fierce competition between the squirrels giving the most interesting poses. Because, each of these cute animals truly knows how to pose.

Are dogs really man's best friends?

A group of scientists conducted some experiment on dogs. They took a dog away from its owner and gave it to somebody else for 50 days. Later on, they put the dog in a machine showing its brain activities. When there was an activity in the brain, a certain part was flashing lights. They showed photos of 50 different people, one by one, to the dog which it could likely to recognize. As soon as it was shown the photograph of its owner, lights began to flash on the screen of the machine showing the brain-function of the dog. Subsequently, the dog had never forgotten its owner!
